Michael John Neill

Host:

WinnebagoLand Genealogical Society

OUR SPEAKER

Michael John Neill

is a genealogy writer and speaker who has been researching his or his children's genealogy for more than twenty years. A math instructor in his "other life," Michael taught at the former Genealogical Institute of Mid-America and has served on the Federation of Genealogical Societies Board. He also lectures on a variety of genealogical topics and gives seminars across the country. He maintains a personal website at: <http://www.rootdig.com>.

LECTURES

Research on a Tight Budget

How to make the most of your research dollar using cost-saving techniques that do not hinder the quality of your research.

Researching the Entire Family

How and when to research the extended family in order to locate more information on your own ancestors.

Organization of Information

How you organize your information plays a major role in what you notice. This lecture discusses effective and easy ways to organize your information in order to make the most of the data you do have.

Locating Emigrant Origins

This lecture discusses a series of general ways to determine where your emigrant ancestor originated.

Lori B. Bessler, Wisconsin Historical Society

It's All Online! Or Is It? - There are so many wonderful resources online for the genealogist, it quickly becomes overwhelming. How do you tell which sites are good? How do you organize your online research so you don't end up spinning your wheels? This session will provide basic instructions to make your online research more successful & productive. It identifies types of websites, how to document your online research & how to find the great sites!

Wisconsin Historical Society: Services & Collections
The Library Archives of the Wisconsin Historical Society holds one of the top 5 genealogical collections in the country. This session will show you how to use the online catalogs, describe services that make the collections even more accessible and provide information about new collections & services including up-dates on new technology & the restoration of the beautiful Reading Room.

Dr. David McDonald, CGSM

Jefferson's Genius & the Old Northwest - discusses the history of public land in the United States. Beginning with the era immediately following the Revolutionary War, we'll consider the various ordinances establishing governance in the territory that was later called "The Northwest Territory." We'll also briefly examine the township, section & range system, along with the significance of the various-sized parcels that may have been purchased, preempted or claimed as bounty by one's forebears.

19th Century Migrations to Wisconsin – considers overland, over water & international migrations into the modern state of Wisconsin: New Englanders & New Yorkers who came following the opening of the Erie Canal; mid-Southerners who were attracted to the mineral mines of southwest Wisconsin; ethnic migrants fleeing the backlash of the Revolutions of 1848 in Europe; Norwegians, Belgians, Germans, Poles, French-Canadians & other arrivals & their impact on their communities, neighbors & the state.
